Revenue Calculation

Sales-out Lenovo Data Center Group products

- Using a process called "dollarization", sales-out revenue measurements calculated for the purposes of target and attainment calculations are based on net sell-in revenue billed by Lenovo to Distributor plus a notional uplift to reflect estimated Distributor margin.
- For transactions reported by Lenovo Distributor as sold-out with a Special Bid, the Special Bid price will be used for dollarization.
- For transactions not reported as sold-out with a Special Bid, a calculation is made based on the Distributor's average purchase price of the related part numbers from Lenovo plus a notional uplift. If no average purchase price is available for a Distributor, then the standard Lenovo Distributor channel price plus a notional uplift is used.
- The amount calculated by the dollarization process will be reduced by any promotion or specific sell-out funding and transactional credits that will be paid by Lenovo.

Any targets set by Lenovo for the "Programme" will also take these reductions into account.
